

MARK SCHEME for the November 2015 series

9607 MEDIA STUDIES

9607/02

Paper 2 (Key Media Concepts), maximum raw mark 100

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began, which would have considered the acceptability of alternative answers.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the question paper and the Principal Examiner Report for Teachers.

Cambridge will not enter into discussions about these mark schemes.

Candidates will be assessed on their ability to understand how meaning is constructed in a media text through the analysis of different technical areas.

Assessment will take place across three criteria:

- use of supporting examples [20 marks]
- use of terminology [10 marks]

Candidates' work should be judged on each of these criteria individually and marks awarded according to the level attained. It should be noted that it is possible for a candidate to achieve a different level for each assessment criterion.

Candidates should be given credit for their knowledge and understanding, illustrated through case study material, relevant to the question.

Assessment will take place across three criteria:

- explanation/argument/analysis [20 marks]
- use of supporting examples [20 marks]
- use of terminology [10 marks]

Candidates' work should be judged on each of these criteria individually and marks awarded according to the level attained. It should be noted that it is possible for a candidate to achieve a different level for each assessment criterion.

Question-specific notes are not appropriate given the wide range of case studies which could be undertaken. However, the following may be applicable:

Key points to cover

2 To what extent is technological convergence important to media institutions?

Whichever media area is covered, candidates would be expected to show the role of convergence with reference to particular case studies. This might refer to increasing the range of platforms on which a product is available or to a shift to online distribution.

3 How far does your own experience of media consumption reflect wider patterns of audience behaviour?

Candidates would be expected to reflect upon their own experience but also to draw upon concrete evidence from their learning about audience behaviour more widely. They may discuss issues such as piracy or online viewing or even production, but also more traditional models of consumption such as cinema-going.
