The Ethiopian Tourism Organisation (ETO) was formed in 2014 to market and promote Ethiopia as a destination. It aims to make the country one of the top five tourist receiving destinations in Africa by 2025. Ethiopia is an ancient country with a unique cultural heritage. It is the only country in Africa to have nine UNESCO World Heritage Sites.

Ethiopia has always lacked infrastructure; the type of hotels, restaurants and guiding and information services that tourism rivals such as Kenya and South Africa have offered for the last few decades. Ethiopia had been going through major changes and the government's priorities were health, education and strengthening the economy. However, the government decided in 2013 that tourism could generate jobs, income and wealth for the country.

Ethiopia's capital, Addis Ababa, is part of a building boom that includes an expansion of Bole International Airport and a number of new hotels are currently under construction. It also has a new light rail system (the first in Africa). Tourism arrivals reached one million for the first time in 2017, doubling the number of visitors from 2014.

Point Of Sales (POS) for travel agents

There are many different types of POS that can be used to help promote offers all year round. Clear displays will make one agency stand out from the competition at the busiest time of year. Some key areas for travel agents to focus on are their windows, shelving, counter tops and waiting areas.

Brochure stands are important for all travel agents. Many people like to sit and browse through seasonal catalogues at their own pace. Place brochure stands near the entrance so that passers-by can easily find the catalogues and come in for one.

If you offer your own exchange rate or insurance, promoting these with a leaflet is a simple way to boost sales. Display them clearly in a leaflet holder on the service desks and in waiting areas.

You can also use poster displays. To really maximise impact, you can also use LED poster cases. This not only makes images more enticing but will also make them more visible, even at night.
