HEALTH AND SAFETY OF COMPUTER OPERATORS

It is important in the office or in any work environment that correct health and safety procedures are in place to protect employees from risks and hazards that are harmful to their health and well-being.

The Health and Safety (Display Screen Equipment) Regulations 1992 were introduced to prevent injuries associated with the use of visual display units. Organisations and employers have a duty to carry out risk assessments of all workstations to make sure they meet the requirements of the legislation. Under these regulations, employers must provide eye tests and information associated with the prevention of injuries that may be caused.

Screen filters, window blinds, checking work surface heights, adjustable chairs, foot rests and document holders are just a few provisions that employers can put into place to aid the health and safety of their employees. Eyes can become strained as a result of staring at a computer for long periods which may result in headaches, migraines and eyesight deterioration. It is also important that adequate rest breaks are given in order to prevent repetitive strain injury, eyestrain and muscle fatigue.

One of the most common causes of muscular pain and discomfort for computer operators is bad posture when typing. Correct posture at workstations is essential for operators' health. Chairs must have adjustable seat height and a back that is tiltable to provide good back support.

Taking simple precautions and reading guidelines provided by employers will assist in the prevention of injuries or health problems that can occur from bad habits.

In-house Training

Management feel that if all our office staff were involved in practical issues of health and safety, they would be more motivated to identify and reduce them. Starting from next week it is proposed that training in hazards in the office will be delivered to all departments on a weekly basis.

Listed below are dates and proposed short courses:

Date	Course	Departments
8 January	Lifting techniques	Finance
15 January	Evacuation procedures	Marketing/Sales
22 January	Fire fighting equipment	Personnel
29 January	Electrical equipment	Production

I will send an email tomorrow confirming the rooms/times, together with supplementary documents which I hope will consolidate the event objectives.

- 3 You have received a letter from Mr Emmanuel Khan of Safety Sure Association, 101 Hoover Lane, Sheffield, South Yorkshire SP 1CX. He has requested a timetable of health and safety courses for 2016.

Using the headed paper provided (Insert 1), compose a letter from the details below. Use today's date and the reference BR/your initials. The letter will be signed by Mrs Blessed Rusape, Course Manager. [30]

- Thank Mr Khan for his letter which was received yesterday (use correct date), expressing an interest in our health and safety courses.
- Point out that we are committed to delivering high quality training and use the best instructors.
- Say that our training products have been developed and are delivered to the highest of standards.
- Tell him that, as requested in his letter, we are enclosing a timetable of health and safety courses for 2016.
- Inform him that discounts are available for bookings for multiple delegates.
- Mention that a buffet lunch and certificates for delegates are included in the price.
- In the final paragraph say that a brochure is enclosed in which he will find full details of the courses and fees.

- 4 Set out the following Minutes of a Meeting using A4 plain paper. Use single line spacing and number any continuation sheets. Make all corrections as indicated. [20]
