Introduction

The main aim of this booklet is to exemplify standards for those teaching Cambridge O Level English 1123, and to show how different levels of candidates' performance (high, middle and low) relate to the subject's curriculum and assessment objectives.

In this booklet candidate responses have been chosen from June 2018 scripts to exemplify a range of answers.

For each question, the response is annotated with a clear explanation of where and why marks were awarded or omitted. This is followed by examiner comments on how the answer could have been improved. In this way, it is possible for you to understand what candidates have done to gain their marks and what they could do to improve their answers. There is also a list of common mistakes candidates made in their answers for each question.

This document provides illustrative examples of candidate work with examiner commentary. These help teachers to assess the standard required to achieve marks beyond the guidance of the mark scheme. Therefore, in some circumstances, such as where exact answers are required, there will not be much comment.

The questions and mark schemes used here are available to download from the School Support Hub.

How to use this booklet

This booklet goes through the paper one question at a time, showing you the high-, middle- and low-level response for each question. The candidate answers are set in a table. In the left-hand column are the candidate answers, and in the right-hand column are the examiner comments.

How the candidate could have improved their answer

The candidate was able to identify keywords in the text and utilised them as part of the answers. This candidate interpreted explicit and implicit information, including the writer's attitude. The candidate also demonstrated understanding of how to write using appropriate language and structure to effectively answer the questions.

This section explains how the candidate could have improved each answer. This helps you to interpret the standard of Cambridge exams and helps your learners to refine their exam technique.

Common mistakes candidates made in this question

The question asked why the author uses these particular phrases to convey his meaning. Many candidates only gave the definition or explained the phrases without giving the reasons why the author used these particular phrases. Therefore, the reponses gained only one mark.

Often candidates were not awarded marks because they misread or misinterpreted the questions.

Lists the common mistakes candidates made in answering each question. This will help your learners to avoid these mistakes and give them the best chance of achieving the available marks.

- (a) Although full marks were scored, the candidate gave irrelevant point about 'needles', and wrote that animals in general rescued people, as opposed to the specific 'horses' of the text. The superfluous link to 'paying for children's education' was given, whereas 'selling animal products' had already scored the mark; uses of animals was the rubric, not the purposes of using animals. 'To provide companionship' was not sufficient to score without the specific reference to 'pets'.
- (b) The following references were relevant: food, transportation of goods, animal hides to keep warm, offerings to gods, sports, education, finding lost people (an attempt at the point, relevant although insufficient), sniff out drugs, scientific testing, therapy, selling animal products. There was only one irrelevant detail given, namely reference to needles. Therefore, this script was awarded upper Band 5 for Relevance.

- (a) Although many points were correctly made (reference to carrying objects, using animal skins to keep warm, using animals for food, in warfare, in sport, for entertainment, for scientific testing, selling animal products, and therapy) several points were incompletely attempted. These included: reference to protection of food supplies without reference to how this was done (by animals hunting other animals); reference to sacrificing animals without reference to sacrificing them to gods; reference to animals in general rescuing people as opposed to the specific 'horses' of the text; reference to fight against crime without it being specified that this was done by training animals to sniff out drugs or explosives. There was no attempt at the point about pets. In general, candidate's answer would have been improved by focusing on separating the main points from what were generalisations or partial points.
- (b) The following references were relevant: transport, clothes, food, transportation, entertainment, forecasting earthquakes, scientific testing, selling animal products, pets, and therapy. There were several irrelevant examples given, namely reference to decorating animals to show rank, animals carrying weights on their backs, fur from mammoths being used to make clothes as opposed to fur or hides from animals in general. The opinion about using animals for entertainment being cruel was included. This meant that the candidate did not quite make the points of the text. Therefore, this script was awarded upper Band 3 for Relevance.
- There were three lines which were fluent: (line 3), in modern times (line 12); also (line 19). The sentences were generally accurate but the candidate could have scored a higher mark had they used more linking devices and tried to synthesise some of the points. This script was awarded upper Band 3 for Coherence.

1 (b) Summary

Now use your notes from 1(a) to write a summary of people's uses of animals in former times, and the uses made of animals today, as outlined in the passage.

Use your own words as far as possible. You will be awarded marks for producing a piece of writing which is relevant, well organised and easy to follow. t^{χ}

Your summary must be in continuous writing (not note form). You are advised to write between 150 and 180 words, including the 10 words given below.

Begin your summary as follows:

Since earliest times, people have made use of animals as Means of transfort both human's and language like Carnels which were used to travel in deserts. Many animals were used and are being used for different largoses. In some early lime's elephants were lawishly decorated as they used to carry feofle of high ranks and they were used in hawing logs. Different dimals like oven houses horses blamas were used to carry heavy staffs and were used for dimals like oven houses horses blamas were used to carry heavy staffs and were used for dimals humans. They were later used in hattles and resea furfoses. Time to time in olympics racing dimals were also used as sign of kindness. While in recent times some animals were used to for many different things, for crample, Puma's were used to for many different things, for crample, Puma's were are used in sorcering corthighades hims be creat hay of using animals. Dogs are used by the police and some animals like rabbits ratio etc are shill being used for medical or sciencific testing. In rurals area's how a days and in carry limes dairy fraducts like mills and eggs also have a week made out of animals like cour, the ravosters, sheefs etc, which are eath either a hamless way or natural way.

3 Relevance - three areas of relevance given, i.e. transport, scientific testing, dairy produce. Lines 1–9 taken up with one area of relevance supported by irrelevant details and examples. Relevance also spoiled by general statements and invented material.

4 Coherence - there is limited fluency and almost no attempt at linking devices.

Mark for (b) = 4 out of 10

Total mark awarded = 7 out of 22

- (a) The candidate could have read the rubric more carefully, i.e. the uses of animals. No points were made in the first section, as (i) either individual animals were selected without a real context or (ii) because the candidate gave examples of how specific animals were used rather than giving general points as required by the rubric. For example: under (i), oxen and cheetahs were selected, and under (ii) specific uses of elephants or specific examples (like animals carrying loads on their backs) were given. In the second section, although the forecasting of earthquakes, scientific testing and sniffing out drugs were correctly given, only four content points were offered, the fourth being the incorrect reference to specific dairy produce instead of the wider context of animal products. To achieve a higher mark in this section, the candidate needed to provide more content points. He should also have concentrated on entire generic points and avoided giving examples or illustrations. The candidate was awarded lower Band 2 under Relevance.
- (b) The following references were relevant– transport, scientific testing and dairy produce. Although this last was not a content point it was an attempt at content and therefore credited with being relevant. There were 4 lines that were relevant: which (line 2), as (line 5), and (line 8), and (line 16). These were limited signs of fluency and the candidate was awarded lower Band 3 under Coherence.

- (a)
 - The most common error was to offer examples as if they were overarching points, e.g. to write 'horses carried soldiers into battle' rather than 'animals were used in warfare' or to write 'The Greeks used horses in chariot racing' rather than 'animals were used in sports'.
 - Another common error was to write only a partial point, e.g. 'animals were sacrificed' with no reference to gods, or 'this study could help in forecasting of earthquakes' instead of 'animals can be used to help in forecasting of earthquakes'.
- (b) There were three basic types of errors under Relevance.
 - Writing general statements which did not contribute to the summary, e.g. 'many animals were used and are being used for different purposes' and 'in recent times, animals were used for different things'.
 - Details and examples, rather than overarching points, e.g. specific reference to camels, llamas and elephants.
 - Invented material, e.g. 'Olympic racing', sign of kindness' and 'harmless or natural way.'
 - There were also two basic types of errors under Coherence.
 - Not using links such as 'however' or 'moreover', producing a stilted or abrupt effect rather than a fluent one.
 - Fluency was sometimes impeded by many common errors.

Example Candidate Response - Middle Examiner comments Re-read paragraphs 4, 6 and 7, and identify and write down one opinion from each of these paragraphs. Subjective adjectives 'cruel' and 'unnatural' clearly identified to Paragraph 4 ...using animals solely for ententainment is..... support this being an opinion. definitely oruel and unnatural. Paragraph 6 .. the medical benefits for humans certainly..... Subjective verb 'outweigh' clearly identified to support this autweigh animal suffering: 2 being an opinion. Paragraph 7 ... & for someone living slane a cat can 3 Inclusion of 'can' makes this an provide companionship. 3 objective statement and therefore not an opinion. Total marks for Section 1: [25] Total mark awarded = 2 out of 3

In the opinion from Paragraph 4, the candidate correctly identified 'cruel' and 'unnatural' as being subjective adjectives in the context. In the opinion from Paragraph 6, they correctly identified 'outweighs' as being a subjective verb in the context. However, in the opinion from Paragraph 6, the candidate did not identify 'most exciting' as being a subjective adjective in the context, writing instead 'for someone living alone a cat can provide companionship'. The inclusion of 'can' makes this an objective statement and not an opinion. The candidate needed to work on distinguishing between subjective and objective statements.

Common mistakes candidates made in this question

Common mistakes were not distinguishing between subjective and objective words which indicate opinion or fact as appropriate.

Example Candidate Response – middle Examiner comments Section 2: Reading for Meaning Read Passage 2, Nizam, in the Insert and answer all the questions below. From paragraph 1 3 (a) Give two reasons why Nizam was happy 'on the day that he qualified' as a teacher. (i) Because he made his parents provd. 1 Answer to (i) is correct but answer to (ii) is not correct. It was necessary to read from lines 3 to (ii) Because he had been qualified in young age. 9 to get both answers, the second being that he had achieved an ambition. Two part answers are usually separated by a stretch of (b) Nizam had 'to write reports on his junior classes'. What is the other reason why Nizam's weekend was less relaxing than it normally was? text. He was asked by the principal to make a topic for the Mark for (a) = 1 out of 2 school's annual story-writing competition. [1] 2 A clear answer. All details needed, including reference to' school' and 'writing'. Mark for (b) = 1 out of 1 Total mark awarded = 2 out of 3

- (a) Candidate correctly identified that Nizam was happy because he made his parents proud. He did not make the point that Nizam had achieved a lifelong ambition. He could have improved his answer by reading more than the immediate context of the first correct mark, and thus would not have picked up 'he was young' as the answer.
- (b) The candidate gave a correct response by including all relevant detail, including 'school' and 'writing' (competition).

- (a) Picking the first plausible sounding answer instead of having the confidence to read on. This was a two-mark question where typically the two correct responses are separated deliberately by a section of text, in this particular case by 6 lines, from line 3 to line 9.
- (b) Omitting one of the details, such as 'school' or 'writing' (competition).

Examiner comments

1 The correct answer is given to Q4(a). Popular wrong answers were (i) lift of 'it was an unjustified tirade' and (ii) misquote of lift at line 17, given as 'he was not able to count himself as being in that age group'.

Mark for (a) = 1 out of 1

2 Ideas to be paraphrased are that the waiter did not return Nizam's smile but gave him an unfriendly look. Two correct answers are given: 'did not smile back' and 'frowning'. Popular wrong answers focused on waiter not liking his job or wrong re-cast of stony as, e.g. 'angry'.

Mark for (b) = 2 out of 2

Total mark awarded = 3 out of 3

The candidate scored full marks in this question.

- (a) Writing 'it was an unjustified tirade against the younger generation' which, although true, did not answer the question as candidates often missed the force of 'what is the other reason?' Another common mistake was to choose the easier lifted answer 'was he too not able to count himself in that same age group?' but to mis-quote it by writing 'he was not able to count himself in that same age group.'
- (b) Ignoring the fact that this was a question requiring candidates to answer in their own words and to write, incorrectly, that the waiter did not like his job. Frequent wrong responses were that the waiter was 'angry' or 'badtempered'.

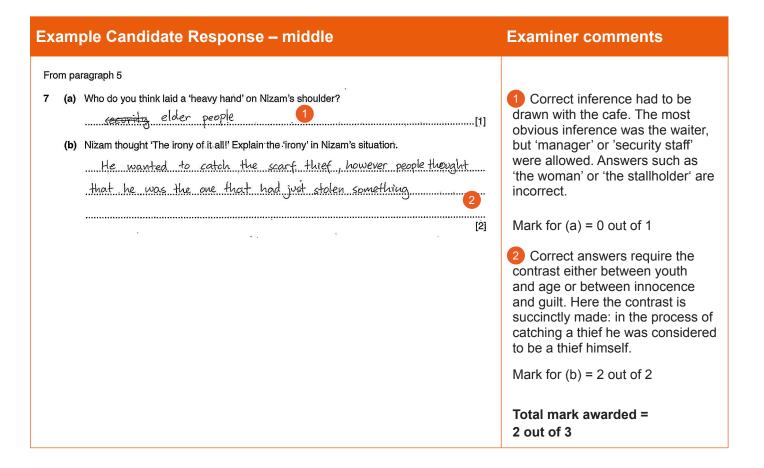

- The candidate scored full marks in both Q5(a) and Q5(b). The candidate demonstrated that they understood the difference between the appearance of what was happening, i.e. that the stallholders were quarrelling, and the reality, i.e. that the arguments were for enjoyment.
- In (b) the candidate used the context appropriately and gave the correct response, which was 'routine'.

- (a) Not understanding 'hostility' and re-casting that as 'friendly'. Another mistake was to dip into the text at 'florists' and 'aroma of spices' and conclude that all seemed well and that the stallholders were enjoying themselves or that the atmosphere was good. If candidates had been confused in the first part of the question at 'apparent hostility' they were more likely to answer the second part incorrectly, ('what was really going on') often writing that the stallholders were in competition with each other, instead of focusing on 'merely a routine and a good-natured part of the morning's entertainment'. This would have told them that the answer was that it was all for fun or that it was all an act.
- (b) Writing 'cacophonous'. This suggests that either (i) they chose this word because it came in the text before 'routine' and they did not read on or (ii) they chose this word because they did not understand it and so thought it might be correct. Using the context is necessary in this type of question.

Example Candidate Response – middle Examiner comments From paragraph 4 1 Text is used to infer in Q6(a)(i) (a) The stallholder showed the woman a scarf. 'Then another. Then another.' What does 'Then that the stallholder is persuasive, another. Then another' show about: doesn't give up easily etc. and scores the mark. the stallholder's character? didn't give up easily, she kept trying to persuade the woman, 111 However, in Q6(a)(ii) there is nothing in the text to support the (ii) the woman's character? idea that the woman is annoying. amoying , liar [1] Closer reading of text shows she is either cunning or smart (she (b) Nizam was 'shocked' and eventually ran after the woman. What two other aspects of his plans to steal) or fussy or choosy behaviour show that he was 'shocked'? (or pretends to be.) 'Liar' is too He gasped specific. , taking the stairs two at a time Mark for (a) = 1 out of 2 2 'gasped' is correct but 'ran out' etc. is incorrect as it merely repeats the question. Two-part questions need reading of a stretch of text, in this case lines 35 to 39, arriving at the second answer 'rooted to the spot'. Mark for (b) = 1 out of 2 Total mark awarded = 2 out of 4

- (a) The candidate wrote correctly that the stallholder didn't give up easily. He did not score the second mark and wrote that the woman was 'annoying' and a 'liar'. He could have improved his answer by seeing that nobody seemed to be annoyed in the text and that, in fact, the stallholder was being attentive and helpful, which is not the sign of an annoyed person. Reading the context more closely would have helped the candidate to see that the woman was deliberately taking up the stallholder's time, so that she could steal something, thus showing that she was clever. Alternatively, the candidate could have inferred from the context that she was fussy or indecisive (although actually she was only pretending to be).
- (b) The candidate wrote correctly that Nizam 'gasped'. But for the second part of the question the candidate wrote that Nizam 'ran out, taking the stairs two at a time'. This was incorrect as it was subsumed into the question wording that 'he ran after the woman'. As with Q3(a), the candidate needed to know that in two-mark questions it is necessary to read a stretch of text to filter out the two required answers.

- (a) Candidates sometimes defined the 'salesperson' idea, writing that he was trying to sell a scarf; selling things is common to all salespersons and not particular to the one in the text. Another common mistake was to offer a comment on the behaviour of the stallholder or the woman, whereas the question asked about character and not behaviour.
- (b) As with (a), the most common wrong answer was to pick the first plausible sounding answer instead of having the confidence to read on. This was a two-mark question where typically the two correct responses are separated deliberately by a section of text, in this particular case by 6 lines, from line 35 to line 39.

- (a) An inference had to be drawn from the context of the café, so 'the waiter' was the expected answer, with 'the manager' and 'the security staff' being acceptable. Using the context would have shown that 'the police' was too extreme a reaction to not paying for a cup of coffee and the timescale would have been impossible too. 'The stallholder' or 'the woman' did not fit the context either.
- (b) The candidate understood the contrast between Nizam trying to catch a thief and in the process being taken as a thief himself.

- (a) Ignoring or missing the clues in the context. 'Who do you think' showed that an inference was needed here, and that the context of the café, and the forgetting to pay for the cup of coffee, suggested the waiter.
- (b) Not to understand that irony involves finding a contrast. Some candidates gave half the contrast, e.g. 'he ran after the thief although he was not a thief himself' and this was given one mark although identifying irony involves finding two sides of a contrast. Other common mistakes were to have an idea that contrast was involved but to give one part of each of the two possible ironies, which were the contrast between youth and age or the contrast between innocence and guilt. For example, 'the newspaper criticised young people and he was accused of being a thief' is incorrect as it straddles the two examples of irony in the text.

- (a) More attention could have been paid to the context of husbands buying flowers for their wives and the general air of happiness which was not supported by the incorrect response 'mess' which was given instead of the correct response, which was 'variety'.
- (b) All the other responses were correct: 'persuaded', 'visibly', 'bumped into' and 'probability'. Attention had been given to the context in which each of these words was to be found.

- 'Tricked' was often given incorrectly for 'coaxed'. Again, the context of happiness should have suggested that 'tricked' did not fit. Many candidates did not identify the contextual link.
- The context of theft and deception should have helped candidates to identify 'invisibly' for 'imperceptibly'. Many candidates did not identify the contextual link.
- The context of rushing in outrage should have helped candidates to identify 'bumped into' for 'collided with', although the inclusion in the text of 'watch where you're going!' led some candidates to link the expression to 'fought against.'

Example Candidate Response – middle Examiner comments Re-read paragraph 4, which contains phrases about (a) the woman and (b) Nizam. Explain: the meaning of the phrases as they are used in the passage the effect of the phrases as they are used in the passage. (a) 'her conveniently voluminous handbag' (line 36) Meaning & Her bag Sceins to be always this frick and of volume Under meaning 'volume', Effect this shows her trabbit regular although not identical to 'voluminous', is a derivative from it and therefore does not define it. Additionally, the candidate either ignored or overlooked (b) 'he shot out of the café'. (line 41) 'conveniently' in the expression. Meaning He van out of the café Mark for (a) = 1 out of 2 Effect This shows the ungency of his, the to Dun out and Chow signs of energency. [2] Excellent response under effect. Mark for (b) = 2 out of 2 Total marks for Section 2: [25] Total mark awarded = 3 out of 4

- (a) Under meaning, the candidate could have improved his answer by realising that 'volume', although not identical to 'voluminous', is a derivative from it and therefore does not define it. Additionally, the candidate either ignored or overlooked 'conveniently' in the expression. They went on to link the expression to theft or deception and scored the second mark for effect.
- (b) Under meaning, the candidate correctly gave 'ran' for 'shot' and 'urgency' for effect.

- (a) Under meaning, it was common to either ignore or overlook 'conveniently' in the expression.
- (b) Under effect, there were three types of common errors.
 - It was common to repeat the image rather than de-code it by writing responses such as 'he was like a bullet'.
 - It was also common to repeat the meaning as if it were the effect, by writing responses such as 'the effect is to show speed'.
 - Other common incorrect responses were to give the reason for his leaving rather than the effect of the expression by writing responses such as' he wanted to catch the thief.'
